Review

“The St. Andrew’s Expository Commentary series will be welcomed throughout the world. It promises to have all of Sproul’s hallmarks: clarity and liveliness, humor and pathos, always expressed in application to the mind, will, and affections. Sproul’s ability to focus on the big picture, his genius of never saying too much, leaving his hearers satisfied yet wanting more, never making the Word dull, are all present in these expositions. May they nourish God’s people well and serve as models of the kind of ministry for which we continue to hunger.”

—Sinclair B. Ferguson, Senior Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Columbia, South Carolina

“Sproul, well-known as a master theologian and extraordinary communicator, now shows that he is a powerful, insightful, helpful expository preacher. This collection of sermons is of great value for churches and Christians everywhere.”

—W. Robert Godfrey, President and Professor of Church History, Westminster Seminary California

“Sproul is a legend in our time. His preaching has held us in awe for half a century, and these pages represent the fruit of his latest exposition, coming as they do at the very peak of his abilities and insights. I am ecstatic at the prospect of reading the St. Andrew’s Expository Commentary series. It represents Reformed theology on fire, delivered from a pastor’s heart in a vibrant congregation of our time. Essential reading.”

—Derek W. H. Thomas, John E. Richards Professor of Systematic and Practical Theology, Reformed Theological Seminary; Minister of Teaching, First Presbyterian Church, Jackson, MS

“Since stepping into the pulpit of St. Andrew’s and committing himself to the weekly discipline of biblical exposition, this noted preacher has demonstrated a rare ability to explicate and apply God’s Word. I wholeheartedly recommend the St. Andrew’s Expository Commentary series to all who long to know the truth better and experience it more deeply in a life-changing fashion. Here is an indispensable tool for digging deeper into God’s Word. This is a must-read for every Christian.”

—Steven J. Lawson, Senior Pastor, Christ Fellowship Baptist Church, Mobile, AL

“How exciting! Thousands of us have long been indebted to Sproul the teacher, and now, through the St. Andrew’s Expository Commentary series, we are indebted to Sproul the preacher, whose sermons are thoroughly biblical, soundly doctrinal, warmly practical, and wonderfully readable. This series of volumes is an absolute must for every Reformed preacher and church member who yearns to grow in the grace and knowledge of Christ Jesus. Tolle lege, and buy these volumes for your friends.”

In 1997 scholar and teacher R. C. Sproul was called to the pulpit of St. Andrews Chapel in Sanford, Florida. The published collections of his sermons, the St. Andrew's Expository Commentary Series, are the result of years of careful preparation and weekly, Bible-centered preaching.

Readers will follow Sproul as he preaches through the book of Acts. The account of the gospel spreading to the Gentiles is the story of the roots of our faith. By God's grace and the labor of Paul and the apostles, salvation has spread to all the nations. Balancing broad and narrow perspectives of each passage, Sproul explores important theological terms and themes, offers perspective from his own wisdom and experience, and engages in practical application.

Delivered from a pastor's heart for his congregation, readers will find Acts readable, applicable, appropriately paced, and thoroughly Bible-centered. Here is an opportunity to sit at the feet of an eminent theologian and teacher, encountering the Word of God.

Good Devotional Commentary

By William D. Curnutt

I want to thank Crossway Books for sending me a copy of R.C. Sproul's new commentary on Acts to use in preparation for a series I am going to be teaching this Winter.

I would classify Sproul's work as a "Devotional Commentary" on the entire book of Acts. His writings are based on a sermon series that he presented at St. Andrews Church in Sanford, Florida. I believe that laymen and pastors will find his work interesting and insightful but not heavily exegetical. He is writing from a reformed background.

I thought that Dr. Sproul did a good job of touching on every chapter and main theme from the book of Acts. His stated goal in this commentary is, "to clearly explain God's Word and to show how we ought to live in light of it." He also states this is "not a technical commentary . . . this is an expository commentary."

Dr. Sproul takes each section of Acts and gives us historical background, the intended purpose that Luke had in sharing the story and then application on how we should live today in response to God's word.

One of the main themes that he expounds upon is that of "obedience" to the Word of the Lord. This obedience is first seen right after Christ's Ascension when the apostles and other disciples go back to the upper room to remain in prayer and fellowship until the gift of the Holy Spirit is given.

Then their obedience is seen in how Peter and John refuse to stop preaching the Gospel when told to by the Sanhedrin. They properly state that they can not cease to share the Gospel since the Lord Jesus Christ very directly commanded them (and each of us) to take the Gospel to the ends of the earth.

We then see obedience in the life of Stephen who also will not be silenced by the religious leaders of the Jewish community. He preaches a sermon that gives a great gospel presentation and then results in his death. Stephen becomes the church's first martyr. He is obedient to the end.

The second half of Acts expresses Paul's obedience to the Lord through the task in-trusted to him on the Damascus Road. Paul never waivers from his task. He continues even in the face of death threats, lashings, shipwrecks, arrest, etc.

Obedience is what the Lord calls us to, the early church responded quickly and loyally to that call. They shared together all that they had. They stood up for each other, send money to each other, prayed for each other and never shied away from presenting the Gospel.

As you start a study in the book of Acts you will be greatly encouraged by Dr. Sproul's clearly written, easy to read commentary.

I trust you will enjoy the experience.
