One of my most valued books.

By Heke

Published in 1965 by Hugh Evelyn Ltd and not reprinted since, this book is printed in large landscape format. The author took a unique approach to his subject, providing a series of plates showing the different patterns of uniform drawn in the form of silhouettes. This was a popular form of cheap portraiture at the time, cut from black card and mounted.

All the plates, of the right profile, are in colour and represent their subject from just below waist level. The format used is text descriptions on the left-hand pages discussing two oval silhouettes on the opposite page, twenty in total, detailed and of high quality. With the exception of an illustration of an officer of the Royal Marines the plates are of navy officers.

The text is interspersed with a number of drawings illustrating buttons for the various ranks, the 'vellum and check' lace worn from 1795, collar embroidery of a ship's surgeon, and a flag officers distinction star worn from 1795.

This book, despite its age, successfully evokes the style of the silhouette portrait and the military fashion of the Royal Navy. Highly recommended and well worth reprinting.
